MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Greetings Windermere Rotary Family

It is my pleasure to serve as your 2021-2022 President.

We continue “World Understanding” month with a reminder that empowering girls is a global 2021-2022 initiative by RI President Shekhar Mehta. As a nation, India has made great strides in women’s health, safety, literacy, and access to opportunities. But it has a very long way to go. India is still rated as one of the most dangerous places in the world for women to live. In his address to the Rotary International Convention in June 2021, Shekhar Mehta urged Rotary members everywhere to put improving girls’ futures at the forefront of their work.

This week, in addition to our scheduled presentation, we will hear about an opportunity to partner with the Girl Scouts in the spirit of RI President Shekhar’s initiative.

Gender equality doesn’t exist, even here. Empowering girls means supporting them to ensure that their basic needs are met while working to transform the structures and institutions that reinforce and perpetuate gender discrimination and inequality. It includes helping girls develop self-confidence and make their voices heard.

According to the United Nations, empowering girls includes five components:

Their sense of self-worth

Their right to have and to determine choices

Their right to have access to opportunities and resources

Their right to have power to control their own lives, both within and outside the home

Their ability to influence the direction of social change to create a more just social and economic order, nationally and internationally.

Let’s do our part. Every day.

Yours in Rotary Service - Frank

LATEST NEWS (CDC)

So why is the immune system so good at preventing severe disease but not really able to stop reinfection? No one knows for sure. But this strategy may be a deliberate one by the immune system, immunologist Jonathan Yewdell explained last week on the podcast This Week In Virology.

In essence, your immune system is allocating resources. And its primary goal is to keep you alive. So the immune system has decided that, with coronaviruses, it's not worth stopping the infection as long as it can stop serious, life-threatening illness. "That is good enough under most circumstances," Yewdell, who's at the National Institutes of Health, explained. "You might not think when you're in bed with 106 [degree] fever, you know, and crying for your spouse to help you because you could barely move that 'this is good enough.' But as long as you've recovered ... you know, mission accomplished." In other words, the immune system is not built to stop every sickness or asymptomatic infection. And it's definitely not built to "give you a negative PCR test," Yewdell says.

So the future of COVID-19 is starting to become clearer: We're going to have a lot more infections but hopefully a lot fewer hospitalizations and deaths.

Vaccination Update as of February 6, 2022

4 200 883 856 fully vaccinated or 53.9 % Worldwide

212 030 509 fully vaccinated or 64.4 % US population

14 029 420 fully vaccinated or 65.3 % Florida population

1 127 935 fully vaccinated or 85.4 % Orange County

Latest News (US News)

A vaccine passport system has been suggested for activities like attending concerts or going into the workplace. But its biggest influence could come from encouraging tourists to resume trips, providing a massive boon to a travel industry that has suffered dramatic losses during the pandemic. However, experts say the idea faces several concerns that are difficult to address.

What is a 'Vaccine Passport?'

Vaccine passports are not a new idea. Frequent international travelers might be familiar with vaccine cards, which are typically a yellow paper showing a persons' vaccinations. Certain areas require proof of vaccination against illnesses like yellow fever or tuberculosis.

President Joe Biden in January issued an executive order directing agencies to assess the feasibility of linking coronavirus vaccinations to vaccine cards, also known as "international certificates of vaccination or prophylaxis," and producing a digital version.

RYLA applications went out last week and we are had one successful applicant! So sorry we didn't attract more but our scholarship monies will send 4 more students to this great event. In addition, one Interact student at West Orange has qualified as a counselor and will be attending as well. (And that happens to be Matthew Bodine, Norma & Bryon's grandson.)

50 Things You Should Know About Rotary

30 - CONCERN FOR THE AGING

One current area of special emphasis for Rotary clubs focuses on providing "new opportunities for the aging." In 1990, the RI Board of Directors urged Rotarians to identify new projects serving the elderly that emphasize intergenerational activities and the integration of seniors into society and the workplace. The following year, the board called for an approach that stressed service "with" the elderly as well as "for" them.

With the substantial upswing in the worldwide population of older persons, their needs for special attention have greatly multiplied. As citizens grow older, it becomes increasingly important for them to retain their personal independence and to remain in control of their own lives to the extent this is possible.

Many Rotary clubs are seeking ways to serve the older persons of their community who face problems of deteriorating health, loneliness, poor nutrition, transportation difficulties, inability to do customary chores, loss of family associations, reduced recreational opportunities, inadequate housing and limited information about available social agencies for emergency assistance. Some clubs have initiated a valuable community service to assist older persons in retirement planning and adjustment by organizing and sharing the wealth of information available within the club's membership. Other clubs have developed foster grandparent programs and other intergenerational activities that allow seniors to use their experience and knowledge to help young people. Rotarians often can provide services which seniors can no longer do for themselves.

The greatest need of aging individuals is frequently a mere expression of real caring and concern by thoughtful friends. All Rotarians should seriously consider how they and their clubs may actively participate in programs for the aging. It is one area of community service in which there is a growing possibility that each of us may some day be on the receiving end.

(Remember, this is from Rotary history and written by DG Steve Garret 1994-1995)

Update from our missionary Kristy Collins:

I have been very busy preparing to open a preschool with Srey Nit.

> The past two weeks I've been training the teachers. They have caught on so fast! It has been a joy. School starts on Monday!!! Exciting!

> I am thrilled to create an opportunity for children to learn through play!!!

> I would love to collect data through this school and others that I will train and compare to other preschools that don't use play-based learning in order to spread play throughout the country. If you have any connections who could facilitate this here in Cambodia, please let me know.

> The school will support the church which meets in the building on Sundays. Proceeds will also support Nit's husband to be a trainer of pastors.

> When they visit churches in the provinces they provide food and healthcare as needed. They have HUGE hearts to serve the Lord and share the Gospel. I am so happy to serve with them.

> Another benefit of this school is that children get to fall in love with Jesus at an early age through the Jesus Storybook Bible.

> AND I get to teach again. I've missed it. 😊

Congratulations to Phil!

As treasurer of our club for 4 years, Phil works tirelessly to maintain and present our financials. The club has now awarded this great work and Phil as a great person with a Paul Harris Fellow. Thank you and congrats, Phil!
