Your classification talk: whatever you do with your narrative, don’t sell it short. Whether you are telling your personal story to your family, the company’s story to its customer or your Rotary story to your members, remember that it has power.

As we go through life, we never lose the anticipation and excitement embodied in these four words: Tell me a story.

MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Greetings Windermere Rotary Family

It is my pleasure to serve as your 2022-2023 President.

Greetings. I trust you had a great Thanksgiving weekend with friends and family, whether at home or on the road. The holiday season is upon us. Here are some things coming up involving Rotary during this fun and busy time of the year.

December 2 is the Town Holiday Hoopla for the residents of Windermere. The Club's Foundation donated $550 to sponsor the kids' train for the event.

December 5 is our Club's Christmas holiday dinner at the Town Hall. There is still time to RSVP to the evite from Karen Hairston. I am setting up the bar ... let me know if you have any special requests. Please bring an unwrapped gift for the One Heart Christmas Gift and Food Drive. Bring a white elephant gift if you want to participate in the gift exchange after dinner. Hope to see you and yours on the 5th at 6 pm.

December 6th there will be no meeting.

December 13th we'll have our last meeting of the calendar year at the Town Hall. It will be our semi-annual club meeting where we'll be electing the officers and board members for the 2023-24 year. Members of the board will also have reports on the activities of the Club and its Foundation.

December 18th we'll be providing dinner again at the West Orange Christian Service Center. Please think about volunteering to provide food and to help serve the dinner that evening from around 4:30 to 6:30.

January 3rd 2023 will be our first meeting of the new year.

See you tomorrow morning when we'll have three of our newer members tell us more about themselves.

Yours in Rotary Service - Jim

LATEST NEWS (NBC NEWS)

SHANGHAI — Protesters angered by strict anti-virus measures called for China’s powerful leader to resign, an unprecedented rebuke as authorities in at least eight cities struggled to suppress demonstrations Sunday that represent a rare direct challenge to the ruling Communist Party.

Police using pepper spray drove away demonstrators in Shanghai who called for Xi Jinping to step down and an end to one-party rule, but hours later people rallied again in the same spot. Police again broke up the demonstration, and a reporter saw protesters under arrest being driven away in a bus.

The protests — which began Friday and have spread to cities including the capital, Beijing, and dozens of university campuses — are the most widespread show of opposition to the ruling party in decades.

In a video of the protest in Shanghai verified by The Associated Press, chants against Xi, the most powerful leader since at least the 1980s, and the Chinese Communist Party sounded loud and clear: "Xi Jinping! Step down! CCP! Step down!"

Three years after the virus emerged, China is the only major country still trying to stop transmission of Covid-19. Its "zero COVID" strategy has suspended access to neighborhoods for weeks at a time. Some cities carry out daily virus tests on millions of residents.

228 390 445 fully vaccinated or 69.3 % US population

Latest News (abc NEWS)

With the Biden administration urging people to get both a COVID-19 booster and a flu shot as soon as possible, the White House's Dr. Ashish Jha said Sunday that updated vaccinations will help people "move on" from the pandemic.

"It's been, obviously, a long two and a half years for Americans, and we understand that people want to move on," Jha, the White House COVID-19 coordinator, told ABC "This Week" co-anchor Martha Raddatz of the virus that has killed more than 1 million people in the U.S. "The good news is people can move on if they keep their immunity up to date."

COVID-19 deaths are still averaging more than 2,000 per week and only about 11% of the country has gotten the latest booster compared to 80% of people who completed the primary course of vaccination that was rolled out in 2021, according to data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

"We've talked about this so many times: People aren't listening," Raddatz said of the federal government's push for vaccinations while low booster rates remain the norm.

"What do you do?" she asked Jha. He reiterated that the vaccines give crucial protection and he said he believes uptake will increase in the coming weeks: "Historically, people tend to get their flu shot in November and December and to January."

"We think it's incredibly important as we head into the holidays for people to update their immunity, get the new COVID vaccine, get the flu shot. It's a great way to stay safe and healthy this holiday season." he said

About 26% of adults are estimated to have received a flu vaccine as of October, according to the CDC, while an estimated 35% of children received the shots as of early November. Those figures are similar to years past, though the flu vaccine coverage for kids was slightly higher in November 2020.

The results of a study released in June by researchers at the University of California, Los Angeles, showed that adult flu vaccination rates have declined in states where COVID-19 vaccination rates are also low. Raddatz pointed to that study and asked Jha, "Are you concerned that the controversy and hesitancy over COVID vaccines is carrying over to flu vaccines?"

Jha responded by citing the overall effectiveness of both the COVID-19 and flu vaccinations, making the additional point that many people choose to protect themselves in this way "when they hear it from trusted voices."

Our strategy is get out into the community, talk to religious leaders, talk to civil society leaders, community-based organizations, have them get out to the community and talk to people, Jha said.
