MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Greetings Windermere Rotary Family

It is my pleasure to serve as your 2022-2023 President.

Thanks to everyone who came to the Christmas holiday dinner party for making it such a fun event. A big thank you to Karen Hairston for getting this party all organized. The tables and decorations were great. The food was plentiful thanks to all. The white elephant gift exchange was fun as was the rendition of the 12 Days of Christmas. And thanks to those who helped set up before and tear down after the party. We left the place spick and span for the Elder Luncheon on Tuesday.

The toys are greatly appreciated as well. It turned out that the Windermere Police Department was not collecting toys / presents this year. They directed me to the Winter Garden Police Department. Officer Luis Vasquez was truly excited to receive all the many and varied presents that you all brought. They will be distributing the presents to families on Saturday, December 17th, from 8-9:30am at the Tucker Ranch, 100 Avalon Road in Winter Garden. We are invited to attend.

Hope to see many of you at our meeting tomorrow morning at the Town Hall. We'll be electing officers and directors and talking about the activities of the club. Then our next meeting will be on January 3rd!

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!!

Yours in Rotary Service - Jim

What is being done to better understand long COVID?

There are many questions still unanswered about long COVID. However, new and ongoing clinical trials are underway to test potential therapies for long COVID symptoms. Currently, there are 39 active clinical trials globally investigating long COVID treatments — part of the nearly 1,300 global clinical trials under way exploring products to fight COVID-19. Recently, the National Institutes of Health (NIH) launched the “RECOVER Initiative” to build on existing research by biopharmaceutical companies and others to learn more about long COVID symptoms. This kind of initiative is important to growing the toolbox of treatment options available for clinicians to be able to offer their patients hope.

Furthermore, as we continue to learn more about the novel coronavirus, biopharmaceutical researchers are also working to identify and uncover biomarkers, or additional science-driven, fit-for-purpose measurements, to better understand and address long COVID symptoms.

Latest News (Kaiser Family Foundation)

What explains the rising share of COVID-19 deaths among vaccinated people?

There are several factors at play here, including a rising share of the population that is vaccinated, waning immune protection and low uptake of boosters, and changes in immunity among the unvaccinated. New variants combined with a reduction in masking and other non-pharmaceutical interventions may also lead to more transmission, which can in turn lead to more deaths.

During the early rollout of vaccines, vaccinated people represented a small share of total deaths, but experts warned that the share would likely rise simply because vaccinated people were representing a growing share of the population. In other words, if 100% of people in the U.S. were vaccinated, vaccinated people would represent 100% of COVID-19 deaths. Similarly, as the share of the population with a booster rose somewhat during 2022, the share of deaths among boosted people also rose. COVID-19 vaccines are very effective at preventing severe illness and death, but they are not perfect, so deaths among vaccinated people will still occur.

Indeed, vaccinated people now make up the majority of the population – 79% of adults have completed at least the primary series – and the latest CDC data show that vaccinated people also now represent the majority of COVID-19 deaths. There are many more vaccinated people than there are unvaccinated people, and vaccinated and boosted people are, on average, older and more likely to have underlying health conditions that put them at risk for severe COVID-19 outcomes. That's why, when CDC adjusts for some of these factors (age and population size), we still see that unvaccinated people are at much greater risk of death and other severe outcomes than people the same age who have stayed up-to-date on boosters. Older people are at greater risk for severe illness and death from COVID-19 than younger people, but vaccines and boosters still lower that risk substantially.
